2020.12.14Ä. Q: Add an array to a multidimensional array in JavaScript Given an array of arrays like this [[1,2,3], [1,2,3]] how can I add to each of these arrays in the array so that the following is returned? [[1,2,3], [1,2,3], [1,2,3]] A: You could use reduce() with the add() method. var array = [[1,2,3], [1,2,3]], newArray = array.reduce((a, arr) => a.add(arr), []); console.log(newArray); An improved version of the reducer function above. The idea is to add all the arrays in the accumulator (a). The accumulator is initially an empty array. After each iteration, the accumulator is added with the current array (arr). The add() method of the array doesn't modify the original array (since it returns the new array, it can be added to the accumulator), so it must be modified to return a new array with the expected result. var array = [[1,2,3], [1,2,3]], newArray = array.reduce((a, arr) => a.add(arr), []); console.log(newArray); Nintendo has announced a series of Mario events. August 22nd to September 16th you can attend a special Mario Kart Tour event in Japan, called the Nintendo Mario Kart Summer Special Event. The event will be held at the e-sports venue Dome Dreamland. Here is more from Nintendo: Summer holiday across Japan The Nintendo Mario Kart Summer Special Event will be held for four consecutive weeks at Dome Dreamland, which is the most centrally located (Level 3) e-sports venue in Tokyo, from 22nd August to 16th September. The event features the Super Mario Kart Tour, which is a unique 6d1f23a050
